PRODUCT OF THE MONTH

Agretti

The season for agretti runs from January to around May. The plant is cultivated in coastal regions of Italy - both outdoor and in greenhouses - and is also known as monk's beard.

If you've not tried it, this wonderful ingredient is similar to samphire, which grows wild here in the UK. In Italy it is typically briefly steamed or wilted in a pan and served with fish.

"Every day is different. I really enjoy working with fresh produce. It's interesting as new products come and go from different countries around the world. I have been at All Greens for nearly four years now. I am a warehouse manager and also do some buying. To be good this job you need to be quick and have good eyes to check the products."
